We are pleased to announce the publication of the book Photography? End?

Photography? End?

Seven visions – new photographic experiences

Ken Kitano/Yuji Hamada/Miki Nitadori/Risaku Suzuki/
Kazuyoshi Usui/Yuki Onodera/Naruki Oshima

The book consists of individual interviews with seven Japanese artists, based in Japan and abroad. They are working together as an artist collective under the same name as this book title - Photography? End? The members are: Yuji Hamada, Ken Kitano, Miki Nitadori, Yuki Onodera, Naruki Oshima, Risaku Suzuki and Kazuyoshi Usui. The interviews were conducted and edited by curator Mitsuhiro Wakayama, who asks how the artists had come to adopt the medium of photography in developing their work and what role it has played in their creation up to now. The book explores the work of each of the artists, revealing both their shared and contrasting qualities as they are. The artists hope this could be a starting point for the reader to discover or question what contemporary photography may be. Each of the interviews is accompanied by color and black and white photographs that illustrate the respective works and creative processes of the artists.

My interest lies in how best to unite pure vision with volitional act of producing a photograph and this motif runs through all of my projects.
